dedication

Each year the staff of the Montage selects a member of the faculty or administration to whom we wish to dedicate our year's work. This year the staff has selected a person well known on our campus — as a teacher, as an advisor, as a family man, and as a personal friend. As one whom we can trust and confide in at any time — as one whom we love and respect — as one to whom no task, no matter how insignificant, is too small to deserve personal attention and consideration — as our friend, now and always, you deserve all honors that can be bestowed upon you. And so we lovingly dedicate the 1956 Montage to you, Dean Richard Powers.

the governor

Governor James E. Folsom, second-term governor of the state of Alabama, is the President of the Board of Trustees at Alabama College.

DR. FRANZ EDWARD LUND

the president

From the very beginning of his freshman year, Dr. Lund was beloved by the students for his quiet dignity, his active participation in student affairs, and for his interest in the students. However, it was not until this his senior year that his service to the college community was fully realized. Now he is appreciated with a deeper understanding, he is respected with a deeper pride, and he is loved with a deeper devotion. This year, because we, the students, wished to honor Dr. Lund as he has honored Alabama College, and because we wished in some small way to let him know that we have confidence in him, the "captain of our ship," the 1956 College Night was dedicated to him.

DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

DR. RICHARD POWERS

Dean Powers — a name that every student knows and loves. For it is the name belonging to the man who is so much a part of life at A.C. His fine personality and his friendly "Hi" make him liked by all. Busy with many administrative duties, Dean Powers always has time for the students, a quality which we so admire.

BUSINESS MANAGER

MR. LEE A. BARCLAY

Mr. Lee Barclay is an alert, keen man to whom all financial responsiblity is entrusted. Plans are always in the making in his mind for improvement and beautification of our campus. Mr. Barclay is a versatile man. Among his favorite pastimes are baby-sitting for his five children or playing a round of golf with his colleagues.

DEAN EMERITUS

DR. T. H. NAPIER

A. C. wouldn't be the same without Dean Napier, a man who has given so much to our college and who has shared his philosophy of life with so many of "his girls" who came to him for guidance.

DEAN OF STUDENTS

DEAN IVA GIBSON

Friendly and gracious to all, Dean Gibson is one of the busiest persons on the campus. She is forever searching for new activities and improvements for the students to make life at A. C. more and more enjoyable. She is available at any time for help or for just a "good, long talk."

the

DR. M. L. ORR

MR. RALPH W. SEARS

Dr. Orr is as relaxed and easy-going as summer itself. Look around the Education office and find the readiest smile — you'll have found our friendly Dr. Orr. But under his casual manner, he is a busy, interested and interesting man.

The co-operative spirit of Mr. Sears in working with students is the only A. C. phenomenon he neglects to publicize. The folks back home keep right up to date on college doings by reading special releases to our hometown papers. And Mr. Sears' name just can't be mentioned without someone saying, "Ohhhh—that voice!"

From the confused mumblings of bewildered freshmen to the confident questions of poised seniors, Miss Hendrick helps students register, figure credits for that check sheet, or just merely get in the correct line.

Miss Jones, now Mrs. Lipps, gets the vote of students on campus as just about the very best meal "getter-upper" we ever heard of. Seems everytime an A. C. student spends the weekend at any other school, they come back with one remark you can count on: "Boy, did I ever miss A. C.'s good food!" administration

Efficient operation of Alabama College as an academic institution depends to a large extent upon the college administrators, whose duties involve not only the purely academic, but also the routine tasks of organization.

With the wisdom born of experience, these administrators solve problems that constantly impede educational progress. Theirs is the responsibility for guiding mature responses from the students of A. C.

MISS VIRGINIA HENDRICK

MISS IBBIE JONES

MISS HELEN NEWTON

Vivacious, enthusiastic, interesting — Miss Newton is the one with the files (hundreds of alumnae), the feminine charm (know anyone with so lovely a smile?), and the friendliness (she always has a "hi" ready when you meet her in the Tea House).

Over in Reynolds Hall there is a very gracious lady, Mrs. Wills. From here first floor office, she sees that students are properly housed. If you don't believe this can be a confusing job, just slip in while the girls are registering for their next-year's rooms. We appreciate Mrs. Will's contribution to our social life here on campus.

Carpenters, electricians, secretaries, janitors, maids, laundrymen, nurses—all play a most important part in the up-keep and the outstanding conditions here at Alabama College.

We thank these people for making A. C. more livable by tending to the details that keep us going. They seem to share with us a pride of being a part of A. C.

Miss Russell, Librarian
Miss White, Assistant Librarian

Miss Dawn S. Kennedy, Head of the Art Department, is deeply admired by all of the students. Much of the success of Elite Night is due to her sincere interest and hard work for this event. Not only is Miss Kennedy active in this student activity, but she is also always willing to give her time for College Night criticisms. We shall all miss Miss Kennedy after her retirement this year.

MISS MARTHA ALLEN

The Alabama College Art Department offers its majors both aesthetic and professional training. In this field one is given individuol attention and thus a rare oportunity for advancement.

MR. C. G. SHARP

Training in biology, botany, zoology, histology, anatomy, phsiology, and pathology is offered by this department. It provides, besides a general course in biology, specialized training that leads the student to research, teaching, graduate work, or professional fields such as laboratory or medical technicians. This year for the first time, students in human anatomy have at their disposal a cadaver which was acquired by the department.

Mr. C. G. Sharp, affectionately known as "Papa Sharp," received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Alabama Polytechnic Institute. This year he was the proud father of Alabama's Maid of Cotton, Miss Joanna Sharp.

DR. GIDEON NELSON

DR. M. ORR

Dr. M. Orr is Head of the Education Department. Keeping abreast with progressive educational trends is the aim of the man who also serves as Director of the Summer School and Director of the Laboratory School. Each morning Dr. Orr, his pipe in his hand, is seen enjoying a cup of coffee at the faculty table in the Tea House.

Learning to operate a movie projector is of much value to these students in education.

MISS LAURA HADLEY

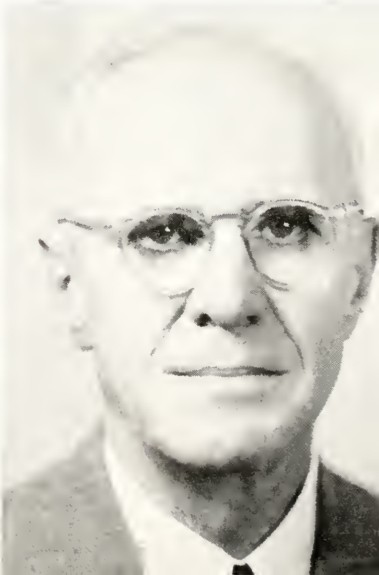
education department

The Education Department, working in cooperation with the Laboratory School, gives the student actual teaching experience in either elementary or secondary education and qualifies the student for the teaching profession upon graduation. Education courses of the college provide a background for this practice by courses in the philosophies and theories of education.

MISS MINNIE DUNN

MR. A. C. ANDERSON



DR. EVA GOLSON

Dr. Eva Golson, a graduate of Huntingdon College, received her M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Chicago. She is an excellent pie, cake, and cookie baker. Her courses in Chaucer are famously known around the campus. Dr. Golson inspires the students to increase fluency and skill in their natural language.

The English Department covers an extensive literary field by taking in drama, journalism, composition, creative writing, and survey and period studies of literature in prose and poetry. It is a general aim of the English Department to train students as writers, teachers, journalists, or participants in other literary professions.

MRS. LILLIAN K. WARD

Kim, student from Korea, adds an oriental touch to our campus and to the Foreign Language Department.

MISS ELIZABETH STOCKTON

DR. LORRAINE PIERSON

Classes in elementary and advanced French, German, and Spanish are offered in the Language Department on our campus. Foreign newspapers, introductions to the customs and politics of these countries, and foreign students enrolled in these classes to add a note of personal interest blend together to make a wonderful department.

Dr. Pierson, Head of the Foreign Language Department, has studied at the University of Chicago, University of Illinois, and the University of Dijou, France. She is a close friend and counselor for the foreign girls on campus.

Miss Stockton enjoys many friendly chats with the girls from South America, and they in turn appreciate conversing with someone in their native language.

mathematics department

Training in fundamentals, specialized studies of geometry and statistics, and finance are a few of the courses offered in the Alabama College Mathematics Department. Students are trained for business or professional jobs through this department. Mathematics further develops the student's abilities in logic and her appreciation and exactitude.

Miss Mamie Braswell became Head of the Mathematics Department in 1954. A graduate of the University of Alabama and Peabody College, she is known on campus for her wit and good sense of humor.

Problems often seem a lot simpler when worked out on the board.

Even this weird-looking object doesn't seem to mystify these students. Or does it! They must be studying functions of angles!

MISS JOSEPHINE EDDY

home economics department

Vocational, educational, institutional, and retail economics are offered in our school through the Home Economics Department. Practical experience is one of the assets in this particular department. Facilities such as the nursery school, laboratory school, cafeterias, and the home management house give their majors marvelous backgrounds before they are graduated. Retail students are given the opportunity to spend nine weeks of their senior year gaining experience in the large department stores over the country.

Head of the Department is Dr. Lois Ackerly, a graduate of Columbia University and the University of Iowa. A warm smile is one of the first characteristics students describe Dr. Ackerly as having.

A love for and an appreciation of music are in evidence in the music department, which is located in Calkins Hall. Music, an essential part of life, is made to come alive to the many students who frequent the building of the musical instruments.

Miss Lelah Brownfield, Head of the Secretarial Science Department, is beloved by her students. Efficient, accurate, and well groomed, she is active in many of the student activities. Alabama College suffers a great loss with her retirement at the end of this year.

History, economics, political science, and social work all come under the jurisdiction of the Social Science Department. Students study all phases of civilization — past, present, and future. Reports, surveys, and field trips play a vital role in each subject.

Dr. Hallie Farmer, Head of the Department, is a person well known for her accomplishments all over the South. One to whom we at A. C. owe a great deal, she is always ready with a friendly smile to advise the students on problems, and has been especially an asset to the student court. We have an outstanding student government organization here at A. C. Our honor code and our three branches of government serve as a model for other schools in their student government. The "Exec" Council acts as a co-ordinator of all the student organizations on the campus. It also revises and publishes the student handbook, supervises the organization of College Night activities, and sponsors the annual SGA dance.

DEAN DRAKE, Chief Justice

To maintain good government on the campus, we have our Student Court — the judicial branch of our organization. Here our sincerity about the honor code and our belief in true student government are demonstrated. The Court is a mediator between the students and the administration. It is the Court's duty to understand and help the student, but it must also always be interested in promoting high standards on our campus. A committee made up of members of the administration and the faculty works with the Court in making its decisions.

Remember getting dressed up in those collars and drapes for class pictures, or rushing from one place to another to be photographed as members of all those different clubs? Remember all the work and planning that goes into Elite Night, but how thrilling it always is and how proud we are of our beauties, favorites, Senior Elite, and Who's Who? Remember all the work that went into editing the MONTAGE — the picture appointments that were made, broken, and remade, the difficulty in getting the picture captioned correctly, and those wonderful out of town trips selling ads? We hope that through the years the 1956 MONTAGE will bring back warm memories of this year at A. C., and that you will cherish it as a record of your days here at college.

Alabama College students are assured of some important mail at least twice each month — when the copies of the ALABAMIAN are put up in our PO boxes. The ALABAMIAN is more than just "another old newspaper" — it's our paper because it's about things we students are interested in — ourselves, A. C. campus news, and sometimes topics of serious nature too, with its frank editorials. We are indeed proud to send such a fine school paper to our parents and to other colleges and universities over the world.

Complete with handbills, whispered asides, and hisses and boos from audience hecklers, the Purple production, in the form of an old-fashioned melodrama, depicts life in the town of Jackrabbit, Arizona. Entitled "Marriage is For the Birds" or "Who Said So!," the production set out to prove that "divorce is cricket, but true love can lick it." Highlight of the three nights' performances came when, after what seemed hours of waiting, it was anonunced — "The decision of the judges is in favor of the Purples!"

Perhaps one of the most important traditions at A. C. is Crook Week. Each year in May, the Crook, symbol of seniority, is secretly removed from its glass case in Tutwiler and hidden somewhere on campus. Then on Thursday night after Crook Convocation at which time the lowlies learn what is to be their horrible fote during Crook Week, the search is begun. However, the seniors don't give the juniors too much time to look for the Crook, since the juniors are busy performing all requests of the seniors, such as breakfast in bed and cleaning the room. Finally, after the Crook is found (usually Saturday morning) the juniors must prove themselves worthy of becoming seniors at Crook Court on midnight Saturday. Then, and only then are the juniors granted full rights as seniors.

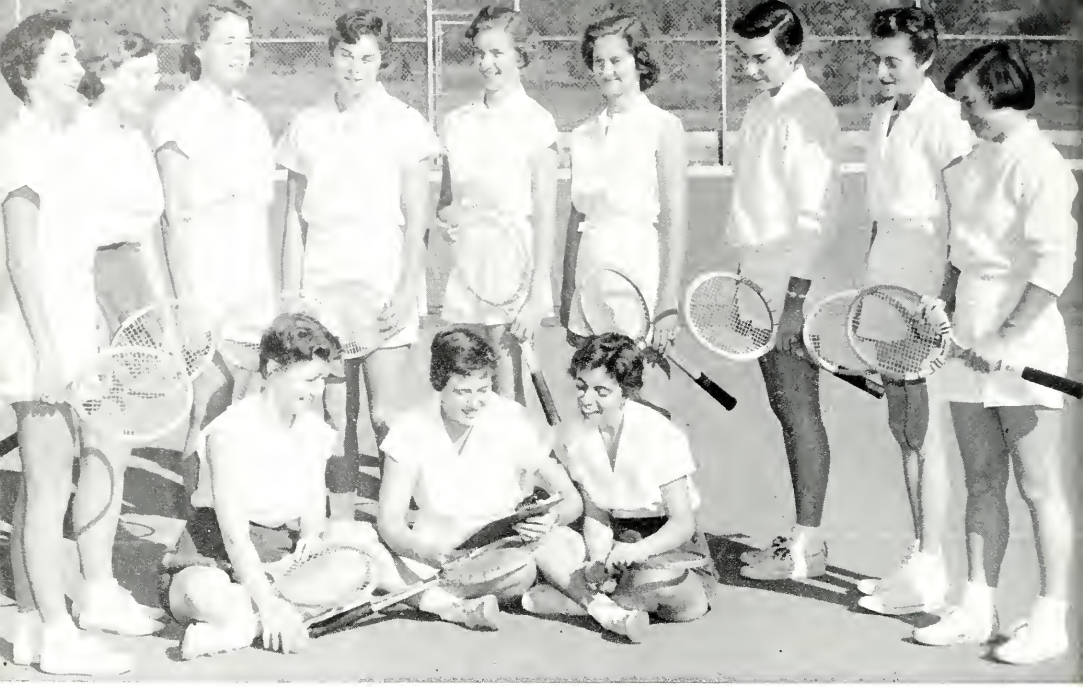
BASKETBALL

After an exciting season of basketball, Romsey edged a final victory over Hanson winning the tournoment for the Junior Class.

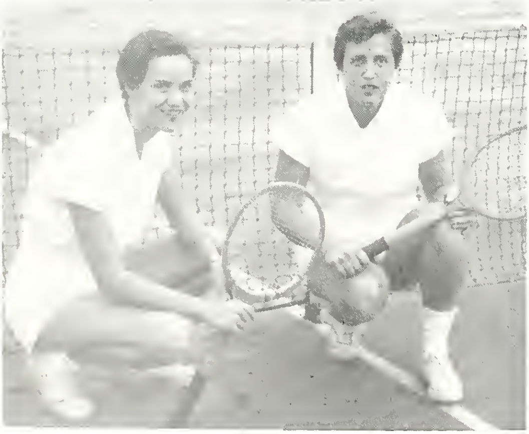
intra-mural sports

ARCHERY

Archery, one of our field sports, attracts many potentiol female William Tells each semester.



tennis



Most any time of the day, the tennis courts are found crowded with students either learning or practicing this ever-popular game. The tennis tournament each year is an important event on campus. This year the winner in first place was Bonnie Strickland, and in second place was Barbara Baker.

golf

Golf, wrongly accused by some as being too hearty for girls, is definitely increasing in popularity at Alabama College. Throughout the year golf clinics are conducted with outstanding personalities in this sport instructing. The golf tournament each year is a campus-wide affair with a place for everyone, even the ones who have never held a golf club before.

canoeing

Canoeing on our beautiful twenty-eight acre lake located just off campus is a favorite sport for relaxation after a busy week of studying indoors.

casting

With spring, the fisherman—or woman—heads for the nearest stream. Girls at A. C. are no exception, except they may be better prepared than the average fisherman, having had casting instruction in the casting classes. Our college lake has been stocked with fish and is an ideal spot for a lazy afternoon of fishing.

soccer

Soccer, one of the roughest sports for girls, is an old time favorite, winter sport, especially among the Physical Education majors.

volley ball

Volleyball, one of the most well-loved sports in which a large number of girls participated, held the interest of the students as the first intra-mural competition of the year, ending with Hanson on top.

modern

Our college catalogue reads: "Modern Dance: Practice and theory in the fundamentals of movement and rhythm and their application to dance composition. Particaular emphasis upon the perfection of individual techniques . . . and group and individual composition."

dance

Modern Dance has become quite a specialty on campus. Members of the dance groups have appeared throughout the year in various programs, including Easter Vespers, the swimming show, and have also provided floor-show entertainment at the student dances.

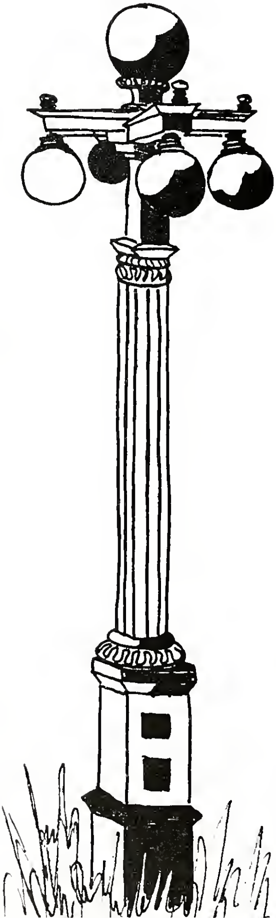
classes



the seniors

As the campus lights dim on the Senior Class of 1956, the seniors pause to look back over the four years here at A. C. — College Night, Crook Week, being marched on by those horrible seniors, then Founders Day and marching in the dark morning hours on the lower classmen, and residing in the sacred domicile of Tutwiler under the protectice guidance of Mrs. "D." Perhaps the most vivid memory a senior has is that of being awakened to the chant of the juniors singing to the "Black Buzzards of Tutwiler" and suddenly realizing—that's me. I'm a senior!!!

HOUSEMOTHER

Mrs. Duncan, affectionately known as Mrs. D., is the capable and loving housemother for the senior dormitory, Tutwiler. Her girls speak of her as the gracious hostess. Our girls will miss Mrs. D. next year, as she is retiring at the end of this year to return to her home in Mississippi.

With almost three years of college behind them, the juniors begin to acquire the dignity and stability that will be required for their senior leadership. Always looming before them has been the apprehensions of their trial of Seniordom — Crook Week. Now that they have safely passed the test (though the seniors still consider them unworthy), the juniors look forward to moving to Tutwiler and becoming the "most honorables" instead of the "lowlies."

RAMSEY DORMITORY

HOUSEMOTHER

Mrs. Marshall has a full-time job as housemother for the fun-loving juniors. However, she always finds time to pick a bouquet of violets from her garden for the girls in the infirmary or to take a stroll with her cat.

the sophomores

How does it feel to be a sophomore in college? Wonderful! Now that you are no longer a green freshman, you can laugh at all your silly mistakes as a frsehman and pity those "poor little freshmen" who don't yet know their way around the campus. And you look forward to a frolicking year with parties at the camp house, Tea House antics, and Pensacola Weekends.

HOUSEMOTHER

Mrs. Witty, housemother in Hanson, is an ardent nature lover. Her "daughters" never fail to include her in the tennis tournament plans. She is known on the campus for her vivacious personality, and is a favorite chaperone for parties and excursions.

the freshmen

Orientation, exams, unfamiliar faces, many new adjustments — these faced the freshman class at the beginning of this first year of growing up away from home. However, the freshman class quickly melded into the spirit and the "oneness" that makes Alabama College. Parties, dances, College Night, the first march of the frightening seniors — all have brought to the freshmen a warm feeling for life here at A. C.

Charming ladies — Mrs. Edgerton and Mrs. Rohrer — are given the responsibility of getting the freshmen oriented into college dormitory life. No two could do a more efficient job. Both of them are very versatile women, and can be seen indulging in all the student-faculty affairs from a game of bridge to attending the college plays.

the elite

Elite Night, an annual tradition on our campus, is an event we all look forward to with anticipation and pride. It is a night when we recognize the most outstanding girls in their particular major or minor fields. Elite Night was begun in 1934 by the MONTAGE staff. Since that time it has continued to be a part of our program each year.

Not only are the girls who are superior in their fields honored at this time, but the class favorites and beauties are also presented. The nine girls who have been nominated by the faculty and elected by the students to represent Alabama College in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities are recognized.

We are proud of our Elite Night. We feel that it is a unique part of the institution we love.
